

CWAO
CASUAL WORKERS
ADVICE OFFICE

ORGANISE AGAINST CORONAVIRUS

The struggle against coronavirus is political

In South Africa, workers and their communities will be the ones who are most affected by coronavirus.

The state has the infrastructure to fight the virus but is behaving like its main job is to protect the wealth of the bosses.

It is important for workers and their communities to fight for safe transport to work and for PPE, to fight for free testing, to fight for properly equipped clinics.

To fight for these things we will have to challenge the power of the bosses' global system of wealth ownership and exploitation.

We must force the state to use the bosses' wealth to fight coronavirus.

If we don't, the working class will pay a very high price.